ENTERTAINMENT ZONE

The Castro is one of the new designated Entertainment Zones the city of San Francisco has created where bars, restaurants, wineries, and breweries are permitted to sell alcoholic beverages to-go during specific hours. Visitors can enjoy their drinks outdoors—in plazas, on sidewalks, or along closed streets—while taking in live music and other creative programming. These zones aim to boost local businesses, encourage economic growth, and foster a lively, community-oriented atmosphere.

Along with being a Entertainment Zone, sites such as the LGBTQ History Museum, Harvey Milk Plaza, and the Castro Theatre are in the process of raising private and public funds for renovations and revamps to encourage more visitors to the neighborhood.
